Computing devices can be used in a wide variety of computing environments, including personal and business settings. These computing environments may include a network-attached computing device, a local computing device, or a cloud-based computing device. The computing devices may be configured to execute applications. These applications can be configured to perform a variety of functions, such as executing computer code, playing media, running programs, performing computing tasks, or providing data to a user. Some applications, for example, applications designed to detect and respond to inappropriate use of computing devices, can be included as an application provided by a computing device. Why aren't there more women in boardrooms? The gender gap is still a concern among women in the workplace, according to new research which found more than two-thirds (68%) of UK women think there are "too few women in senior positions". The gender pay gap is also a concern among women in the workplace, with almost half (46%) of UK women admitting that it is "getting worse". One in five (21%) admit that they've had a negative experience at work because of their gender. The study also shows that one in five (20%) women believe their gender could be holding them back at work, with many citing a lack of confidence (43%) or a lack of 82157476af
